

Biography

Professor Reinhold Kreutz is the Director of the Department of Clinical Pharmacology and Toxicology at the Charité – Universitätsmedizin in Berlin, Germany. He specializes in Hypertension and Clinical Pharmacology.

Main research areas of Professor Kreutz interest are clinical and experimental hypertension with a focus on genetics of hypertensive target organ damage, clinical pharmacology of cardiovascular drugs, pharmacogenomics, drug therapy in the elderly and drug safety.

Professor Reinhold Kreutz attended the Medical School between 1980 and 1987 at the University of Mainz and Bonn. In the following years he received his research and clinical training in Internal Medicine (focus on hypertension and kidney disease) and Clinical Pharmacology in Cologne, Bonn, Heidelberg, Boston and Berlin.

He received the title of Associate Professor at the Charité – Universitätsmedizin in Berlin in 2010. Professor Reinhold Kreutz is current President of the European Society of Hypertension (ESH), previously he was Secretary of the Scientific Council of ESH (2017-2019). Between 2010 and 2016 he was the Member of the Management Board of German Society of Hypertension. Since 2012 Professor Kreutz is the Member of Ethics Committee within Federal State of Berlin.

He is the Editorial Board Member of well known and recognized journals: Journal of Hypertension, Journal of Clinical Hypertension and High Blood Pressure & Cardiovascular Prevention.

He has authored and co-authored 312 papers in peer-reviewed journals with citations level (Google Scholar) of 17 126 and Hirsch Index of 56.